

THE GREENHOUSE COLLECTIVE

BIO

Origin: Hamilton, ON

Members: Buddah Abusah, Roa & Danny Smart

Genre: Hip Hop/Pop

Years Active: 2024 - Present

Label: Tones Of The Hammer Records

Website: <https://www.itsgreenhousecollective.com>

Short Bio (50 words)

The Greenhouse Collective, based in Hamilton, Ontario, features Buddah Abusah and Roa The Red Handed as lyricists, alongside producer Danny Smart. They fuse hip-hop's sharp storytelling with infectious pop melodies, creating a fresh sound. Set for exciting releases in 2025, they aim to elevate Hamilton's music scene and make their mark.

Medium Bio (100 Words)

The Greenhouse Collective is a vibrant music trio from Hamilton, Ontario, comprised of the talented Buddah Abusah, Roa, and Danny Smart.

Buddah is a multifaceted rapper, producer, and engineer, known for his sharp lyrics and innovative soundscapes. Roa, a lyrical powerhouse, weaves vivid storytelling into his rap verses, creating a unique blend of emotion and authenticity.

Danny serves as the creative engine, expertly producing and engineering the group's tracks while also contributing as an artist.

United by their passion for music, they aim to spotlight Hamilton's burgeoning music scene. With exciting releases on the horizon for 2025, The Greenhouse Collective is set to redefine the fusion of hip-hop and pop, making waves in the industry.

Long Bio (250 Words)

The Greenhouse Collective is a newmusic trio based in Hamilton, Ontario, comprised of Buddah Abusah, Roa, and Danny Smart. This eclectic group combines their diverse talents to create a fresh sound that's poised to elevate Hamilton's music scene.

Buddah, a versatile rapper, producer, and engineer, brings a sharp lyrical performance to the collective. Roa complements Buddah's style with his own lyrical prowess, weaving intricate verses that showcase his unique perspective and creativity. Together, they craft compelling verses that encapsulate every new artist's determination.

At the heart of The Greenhouse Collective's sound is Danny Smart, whose expertise as a producer and engineer at Halo Studio is instrumental in shaping their music. Danny's knack for blending infectious pop melodies with the rhythmic intensity of hip-hop creates a news sound from the Hammer that draws listeners in. His production techniques and keen sense of melody allow Buddah and Roa's lyrics to shine, resulting in tracks that are both catchy and thought-provoking.

As they prepare for their first release this summer, The Greenhouse Collective is determined to put Hamilton on the map. By fusing hip-hop and pop, they are not only making a name for themselves but also believe in collaboration in the vibrant local scene. Determined, with new music, The Greenhouse Collective is ready to make waves in Canada's music industry.